

Yellow Corporation leadership closely monitors COVID-19 updates/news to address questions and concerns across our network. We are focused on employees' health and safety and on customer service, shifting supply chain patterns as needed.

Yellow Corporation is prepared to support any freight shipment or network disruption challenge, especially where we can assist in transporting critical supplies to customers.

Thank you to the 30,000+ employees of Yellow Corporation who remain dedicated to safely and diligently serving our customers during these challenging times.

Network Strength

The trucking industry is the backbone of the American economy, and Yellow Corporation's role in the North American supply chain is critical, especially now. We're dedicated to servicing our customers to transport essential freight – especially medical and other critical supplies and high-need items.

Currently, there are no COVID-19-related delays or disruptions across our freight network. Yellow Corporation's network remains very strong and flexible.

Infrastructure, including duplicate customer service centers and other contingencies, allow us to continue customer service support in the event of any emergency response.

Health & Safety

We continue to monitor the latest updates and information across the CDC, NIH, WHO and Health Canada, and will address questions/concerns accordingly related to the health and safety of Yellow Corporation employees and business continuity.

Based upon the recommendations from official health organizations, we have suspended all visitors to the Yellow Corporation Field Resource Center (Overland Park, KS), Holland corporate office (Holland, MI) and Reddaway corporate office (Tualatin, OR).

In accordance with CDC guidelines on social distancing, Yellow Corporation has suspended all non-mission critical travel and postponed large-group meetings. While we plan for a shift in in-person customer communications for now, we are not reducing customer contact.

Interstate Operations

The U.S. and Canadian governments see Yellow Corporation as an essential carrier and are not stopping any cross-border operations.

Yellow Corporation companies remain open and able to operate across North America, as quarantine or "stay home" orders don't impact our "essential business" status.

As a coast-to-coast interstate carrier, we have asked the United States Department of Transportation to monitor state and other travel restrictions and, if appropriate, take action to ensure there are no impediments to interstate commerce.
